

SUMMARY OF PRESENTATION

Summary of Presentation

Container Shipping Market Normalisation. How Will We Get There?

Several new records have been set for the container shipping market in 2021, including record high container freight and charter rates, carrier margins, new ship orders, container box prices, container box production and container port congestion.

The presentation will cover the drivers behind each of these developments and provides an overview of the key forecasts for the market in 2022.