

Container Shipping - After the Boom

The 2 key drivers for the 2021 container boom were elevated consumer demand and port congestion especially in the US. The unwinding of these key drivers will unleash a significant supply overhang that will be exacerbated by new ship deliveries in 2023 and 2024. Vessel scrapping, slow steaming and capacity management will not be able to prevent a hard landing.